ALL RAIL GRAIN SHIPMENTS

The Winnipeg papers announce that the C. P. R. will ship grain all winter from Fort William to Atlantic ocean ports, presumably St. John. This is good news indeed. The grain blockade of the past several years has not, after the close of navigation, been because of a lack of cars so much as because of lack of storage at Fort William. Last winter and the winter before the Northwest government tried to get an arrangement whereby Northwest grain could be sent over United States lines to Duluth. But the C. P. R. would not permit this to be done. They practically said: "The grain can wait until the opening of navigation in the spring, and until we get goods ready to haul it." This was because they knew they were in control of the situation. The Canadian Northern could and did compete for the grain trade to Lake Superior, but beyond that point the Canadian Northern was helpless. But times have changed in the past year. The world has been moving, and no other part of the world has been moving so fast as the Canadian Northwest. The arrangements which have been made for the entry of the Grand Trunk Railway into the Northwest, the purpose of which is to give an all rail, all the year round outlet for grain to the sea, and at the same time give competition to every section of the West, has caused the C. P. R. to revise its position; and now it announces that after December 1st it will be able to handle 200 cars daily over its eastern division from Fort William to Montreal and St. John. This ending of the C. P. R. will tend to relieve the grain blockade as nothing else would or could. But for that action the policy of the government in regard to the Grand Trunk Pacific must be given the credit and not the enterprise or good will of the C. P. R.

It was only at the last session of parliament that the opponents of the Grand Trunk Pacific proposals based their strongest opposition on the alleged impossibility of the Grand Trunk doing just what the C. P. R. is now doing. And their proof was that the C. P. R. had not yet done it, and, therefore, that they could not do it. The difference to the wheat growing portions of the Northwest between a condition of wheat blockade and of open traffic all the year round, can scarcely be over estimated; and all parts of the country will share in the benefit. But until we have the actual competition of the Grand Trunk Pacific, the full benefit will not be felt. Until then we will have to pay monopoly rates on incoming freight, even though the grain is taken out at reasonable rates. But when we have competitive through lines one may very well expect that a powerful effect will be felt in the rates on return freights. Every cent taken off the price of carriage is a cent in the pocket of the producer or consumer, so the case may be, and therefore, a cent added to the money in general circulation in the country.

THE OLD INVENTOR

The National stock company scored a great success in their presentation of The Old Inventor, at the Opera House last night. A large number were present, who, judging from the applause, considered The Old Inventor the best play the company has yet put on here. Horace V. Noble, as Cyrus Blankenship, the old inventor, was grand. The character gave ample scope for clever acting and Mr. Noble left nothing to be desired in his presentation of it. Clara MacDonald, as Mary Blankenship, was excellent. The part was not as prominent as other parts she has played, but it was eminently suited to her. Nancy Blankenship and Jesse Peck took prominent parts in the play and were exceedingly good. Both played the characters with excellent merit, and the appearance of each on the stage was eagerly awaited. Captain Julian Chandler, although taking a minor part, played it excellently. The setting of B. J. Rhodes as Mr. Chandler was very much appreciated. The other characters played their parts well. The specialties were all excellent and of a refined character.

HOCKEY

A very exciting game of hockey was played on Thistle rink, Edmonton, on Thursday evening between teams representing Edmonton and Strathcona. The Strathconas, last year's champions of Alberta, went down to defeat. A great crowd from both Strathcona and Edmonton witnessed the match and followed both sides with loud and prolonged cheering. Edmonton quickly scored a goal from the face off, which, however, was followed by four straight goals by Strathcona, who were playing a hard game. Edmonton was defending the north goal and the last two are lights were not working well and the goalkeeper was at a great disadvantage. Each team scored another goal, leaving the score five to two in Strathcona's favor at half time. After half time the game started out with renewed vigor and the play was fast and furious. Edmonton quickly ran up a score of six goals, making the score eight to five. At this point, Wright, one of Edmonton's best players, received a bad cut on the head which necessitated his retiring for the rest of the game. R. Robertson took his place. There was only a few minutes left to play, and Strathcona commenced to rush things, scoring twice before the call of time. The final score was eight to seven. The return match will be disputed. The return match will be played in Strathcona on Thursday evening next and promises to be a very closely contested one.

The line up of the teams was as follows:

Edmonton	Goal.	Strathcona.
Humeaton	Point.	Robolt
Banford	Cover	McKernan
Bellamy	Rover	May
Sibbald	Centre	Blain
Wright	Right Wing.	Richards

Will Interest The Cultivated.

If you are at all interested in pretty china and handsome glass, you cannot spend ten minutes more pleasantly and profitably than by taking a look through our china department. We have this season made a very special effort to have a collection of china and glass which should possess sufficient artistic merit to please the most fastidious connoisseurs.

We believe our effort has been entirely successful, and we are now showing for the Christmas trade in this department, a class of goods which is usually found only in the larger stores in the great cities. You do not need to be an expert to recognize merit in these goods. Every piece has been selected for its individual and intrinsic beauty.

There is an aristocracy, so to speak, in china and glassware. We would not trouble you to read this announcement unless we had goods to show you of a class quite distinct from those shown in every store along the street.

On our tables are shown some lovely Wedgewood ware (the real thing, not the obvious imitations which are often offered as such) in jugs of various sizes, and sugar bowls and plates, in blue and gold, (real bullion gold, which will wear a lifetime), possess a delicate beauty which would excite anyone for breaking the teeth commandment. In Copeland china (the real thing again) we have sets in white, with blue and gold stripes, very handsome, at $25 to $75. In Limoges china we have tea sets in rich and dainty designs, at $10 to $18; also a large stock in this ware, which may be bought separately—cups and saucers, plates of various sizes, salad bowls, platters, etc.

In fancy Bavarian china, we have a very interesting collection of odd pieces, in various colorings and very handsome decorations, such as salad bowls, cake plates, bon-bons, biscuit jars, chocolate jugs, etc. Prices on these will strike you as low.

In cut glass, we are showing some beautiful productions in decanters, spirit jugs, vinegar and oil bottles, carafes, bon-bons, etc. Decanters, from the plain bowl, with cut neck and stopper, at $2, to a magnificent, massive, sparkling, full-cut bottle, at $16.

We have said nothing about ordinary decorated dinner and tea sets, toilet sets, etc. That is another story.

FORT SASKATCHEWAN

(From an Occasional Correspondent.)
One of our local agents, acting on behalf of the Canadian Northern Railway company, has just received a letter from the company, asking him to immediately obtain for them the right of way from the Fort, east to Bruderheim.

Mr. John Whitson has just removed from the Larose and Sterrett saw feed barn, having terminated the lease. He now occupies the Excelsior stables, belonging to the Queens hotel, and is doing a rushing business.

Many of our gallant South African warriors of this neighborhood, were looking forward to having a glimpse of an old commandant, but owing to the dangerous condition of the ice, they had to abandon the idea altogether.

The new Queens hotel, which is an exceedingly imposing building, will shortly open up. It has every accommodation for travellers and parties. It is to be fitted up with billiard tables.

BATTLEFORD

Saskatchewan Herald, Nov. 25th.
The lumber, for the immigration shed at Lloydminster has been landed at a point twelve miles from Star owing to the river freezing up, and will be towed from that point to the colony.

Mr. Stewart, the engineer in charge of the Grand Trunk Pacific party that has been working southeast of Battleford, came to town this week and outfitted his party for the winter, pulling out again yesterday.

Macfarlane's Canadian Northern survey party is on its way to Battleford from the West. Mr. Macfarlane came in ahead and will probably be working in this district for some time.

On Monday evening last the citizens of Battleford tendered a farewell dinner to Major Grosche on the occasion of his retiring from the N.W.M.P. The dining table at the Queens hotel were very tastily laid and about forty sat down to a sumptuous repast. Mr. Champagne is to be congratulated on putting up a dinner which was in every way worthy of the occasion. Mr. Geo. Day presided at the after proceedings and a very interesting program was gone through.

A Novel Suggestion for Christmas.

We know that many of the good people about us are intending patronizing us for Xmas photos—many have already told us.

Just Suppose.

(and this is improbable, though possible) that the finishing of the new studio is further delayed, and we find that, by the time we are all settled and ready to take those photos for you, there would be insufficient time to turn the work out and DO IT PROPERLY, what are you going to do?

Let Us Solve the Problem.

We are getting a number of post cards printed, on which appears a note—a promissory note in fact—by signing your name to which you agree to forward your photo as soon as finished. Also there appears the usual Xmas greeting, and there's the point. You wish your friends the best of cheer at Christmas, don't you? The very novelty of the thing will make that friend smile, the reluctant anticipation will make that smile hold, and the realization will cement it there. Every little helps, you know.

Follow this suggestion and you will be pleased, your friends will be delighted, and we shall be happy too, so everything will be lovely.

You can get the cards at the studio in good time. Await announcement of opening.
